Protecting Your CREDIT UNION (Bank) Account from Fraud: Essential Tips for Safety

By Edward Bohnwagner

In today's digital age, the convenience of online banking comes with an increased risk of fraud. Protecting your bank account from fraudulent activities is crucial to ensure the security of your financial assets and personal information. In this article, we will discuss essential tips and best practices to help you safeguard your bank account from potential fraudsters.

Regularly Monitor Your Accounts: One of the most effective ways to detect fraudulent activity is by regularly reviewing your bank and credit card statements. Look for any unauthorized transactions, withdrawals, or suspicious charges. Set up account alerts to receive notifications for transactions above a certain amount. This can help you spot unusual activity quickly.

Use Strong and Unique Passwords: Create strong, complex passwords that include a combination of upper and lower case letters, numbers, and special characters. Avoid using easily guessable information like your birthdate or common words. Never use the same password across multiple accounts. Utilize a password manager to keep track of your login information securely.

Enable Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA): Whenever possible, enable MFA for your online banking and financial accounts. MFA adds an extra layer of security by requiring you to provide two or more forms of verification before gaining access to your account.

Be Wary of Phishing Attempts: Fraudsters often use phishing emails or text messages to trick you into revealing your personal information or login credentials.

click on suspicious links or download attachments from unknown sources. Verify the authenticity of messages by contacting your bank directly if you receive an unexpected communication.

Secure Your Devices: Ensure that your computer, smartphone, and other devices used for online banking are protected with up-to-date antivirus software and security patches. Set a strong PIN or password to unlock your devices and enable biometric authentication methods if available.

Protect Your Personal Information: Avoid sharing sensitive information, such as your Social Security number or bank account details, with anyone unless necessary. Shred financial documents and statements before disposing of them to prevent dumpster diving.

Use Secure Wi-Fi Networks: Avoid conducting financial transactions on public Wi-Fi networks. Use a virtual private network (VPN) when necessary to encrypt your data.

Regularly Update Your Banking App: Keep your banking app up to date to ensure you have the latest security enhancements and bug fixes.

Be Cautious of Social Engineering: Fraudsters may impersonate bank employees or other authorities to gain your trust. Verify the identity of anyone requesting your financial information or assistance. Check Your Credit Report: Regularly review your credit report for any unusual or unauthorized accounts or inquiries. You are entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the major credit bureaus.

Protecting your bank account from fraud requires vigilance and proactive measures. By following these essential tips and staying informed about the latest security threats, you can significantly reduce the risk of falling victim to fraudulent activities. Remember that the key to safeguarding your financial well-being is staying one-step ahead of potential fraudsters and taking action promptly if you suspect any suspicious activity in your

MICHAEL PAULHUS, TOWN MANAGER'S REPORT TO TOWN COUNCIL September 18th, 2023

Town Manager's Report:

How to Brand a Town - Presentation by Matthew Collado

• Matt Collado is a high school (Senior) intern who is assisting the Town Manager's Office with a marketing and branding project. He will give a PowerPoint presentation on his research and action plan to develop a brand by leveraging multiple social media platforms.

Paderewski Park

- At the August 21, 2023, meeting I re-capped the site walk that was conducted on July 26th to visually inspect the park and area around the pond. There was a general agreement among the members present that the pond is an asset that should be preserved. There was a general discussion on ways in which to promote conservation efforts while allowing recreational activities to continue.
- In a separate memo, I outlined my recommendations for items like park conditions and possible improvements, upgrades to signage, the boat launch, added conservation efforts, education efforts and promotion of best practices.
- There is an item under New Business to approve the Town Manager's recommendation to promote conservation efforts while enhancing recreational activities.

Roadways Dept. Pickup Truck Purchase

- The Roadways Department received a quote from Gengras Ford, LLC for a total of $50,607.20 for a new, 2024 Ford F-250 Crew Cab 4x4 with the specifications as required by the Town.
- In the FY 2024 Capital Improvement Plan (CIP), the Town Council approved 30,000 for this purchase, which is under the quoted amount by $20,607.20.
- The additional expense can be accommodated through available funds within the Capital Fund due to cost savings on other projects and purchases.
- There is an item under New Business regarding the approval of Bid #2024-11, Roadways vehicle to Gengras Ford, LLC of Plainville, CT in the amount of $50,607.20.

Honor Heights Sewer Project Update

- The piping infrastructure (sewer mains and laterals) are scheduled to be substantially completed this week - September 18-22, 2023.
- The unfinished business decisions are administrative and include the following:
- 1. Determining the date of the Final Assessment Public Hearing.
- 2. Determine the Proposed Final Assessment Parameters
- Preparing Public Hearing Document.
- Suggested Assessment Amount Approx. $10k
- Payment Plan and terms, i.e., the interest rate and duration of plan- 5yr., 10 yr., yearly payment due date, etc.
- Demand Dates for Assessment and Hook Up connections.
- Consideration of Incentives Package for those that connect right away at the start (2024): a. Waiving the inspection fee ($100); b. Deferred Billing up to 3 years, no penalties, no interest.
- 3. Develop schedule for implementing Final Assessment Tasks. The goal is to complete the process so residents can connect to the public sanitary sewer beginning in April 2024, the start of the 2024 Construction Season. Given the Town Council schedule, I am suggesting a Special meeting of the WPCA be considered for Monday November 27, 2023 to work out the details and sequence of events.

Sewer rate Discussion

- Under the Town Charter, the Town Council also serves as the Water Pollution Control Agency for Plainville. As such, the Town Council sets the sewer user rate each October for bills that will be due on November 1st.
- The goal is to maintain a fund balance equal to three months' worth of the sewer operating budget, which is currently the case but will likely not be the case going forward without an increase. The sewer user rate did not increase in the last two years but the recommendation is to increase the rate by 2%.

• There is an item under New Business to set a public hearing date for October 2, 2023, at 7 pm to hear comments on the proposed rates.

Drainage Repairs at Norton Park and Hollyberry Lane

- An earth drainage swale conveying runoff from the Redstone area to the former canal in Norton Park was damaged, (washed out), during recent summer storms. The objective of the repairs will be to reestablish/ stabilize the drainage swale.
- The EZIQC program is a competitively bid oncall service for construction projects offered to the members of the Capitol Region Council of Governments. Gordian Group and its partner Martin Laviero Contractor would perform the proposed
- The Department of Technical Services and the Roadway Department recommends the Town Council authorize the Town Manager to enter into agreement with Gordian Group/Martin Laviero Contractors utilizing CRCOG's EZIQC program in the amount of $29,822.49 for drainage repairs in the vicinity of Norton Park and Hollyberry Lane.
- There is an item under New Business to award the project to Gordian Group/Martin Laviero Contractors.

Middle School Update

- The Town & BOE staff have been working on the following items related to the Middle School:
- 1. We have requested updated numbers from CSG for Renovate as New and are working to update numbers from BOE/Town on Maintenance Plan.
- 2. Review of the application process and reimbursement rate with the State of CT - Office of School Construction Grants & Review (OSCG&R).
- 3. Review and update of bond analysis and debt service schedule with Rob Buden and Bond Consultant.
- The next step would be to convene a joint meeting of the Town Council and Board of Education to review the information. I would suggest a meeting for Tuesday, September 26, 2023 at 7 pm.

Community Video Series - The Town Manager is looking to leverage free resources to increase the Town's online presence. The effort is two-fold; to provide better transparency to citizens of the current and future happenings and events in the Town, and to highlight the Town, services, and offerings as an assistance and recruitment tool to current and future businesses. The goal is to create and utilize various avenues of social media to develop creative and engaging videos that are informative, and on some level, entertaining. Internal options are being reviewed for the best path forward, but I do anticipate this to evolve over the coming months into tangible Relatedly, the Town Council approved the Town to engage with CGI Communications for the updating of our Community Video Series. The Town first worked with CGI on this project pack in 2019, and with updates and changes in personnel over that time, there was a desire to redo the videos. As was true before, the videos are scripted, filmed, and edited by CGI at no cost to the Town. CGI makes money by selling ad space around the videos, much like any free iPhone app, and when in Town filming, CGI can privately engage with local businesses to assist in increasing their online presence, whether that be website development or creating various advertisements for the businesses that would otherwise not be able to be handled in house.

My office held a kick-off meeting with CGI this past week, and a production meeting has been scheduled for next week to review current videos and discuss how best to update them. The goal is to have CGI in Town to film during October to capture prime foliage and allow us to work with the new Superintendent when updating the "Education"

White Oak Update – At their August 21st meeting, the Town Council approved Staff's recommendation to award the hazardous building abatement of existing structures of White Oak to Enviro Consultants and Recyclers of Danbury in the amount of $625,000 – less than the estimate cost provided to us by Tighe & Bond. After review by Staff, Tighe & Bond, and DECD, there's confidence in Enviro being able to fully execute the necessary scope of work at the noted cost. A contract has been drafted and is currently under DECD review. It is anticipated that approval will be received shortly, and execution will occur soon after. Enviro has provided a timeline of 9-10 weeks to complete the work.

Meanwhile, Tighe & Bond continues to work with MNR on development of a Master Plan, and consequently, an RFP for soil remediation. MNR will have to submit the final Master Plan to Planning & Zoning before the end of the year. The hope is they will have design finalized before that date, allowing Tighe & Bond to finalize a Remedial Action Plan for the site, as well as publish the RFP for soil remediation later this fall.

North Mountain Road - Town Staff has continued efforts to assist the Tomasso Group in advertising their development opportunity surrounding the existing cancer treatment center on North Mountain Road. Recently, Tomasso purchased the remaining 10-acre parcel that was among the other ~100 acres of land they owned surround the center, allowing them to now advertise a fully contiguous parcel. Advertising efforts have been ramped up with both print and digital promotions with local, regional, and state stakeholders. As was done with the previous ~100 acres, Tomasso is anticipated to apply for a rezoning of the new parcel to Technology Park before the end of the year. The rezoning will enhance their ability to recruit businesses to create a larger medical campus. Recruitment is further buoyed by the parcel's designation as a Bioscience Zone, which can potentially provide very lucrative state tax

Business Developments –

Big Steve's has been sold by the original owners as they have decided to retire. The business has been taken over by a new group who is rebranding as Fina's Kitchen. In addition to the menu staples, Fina's Kitchen is expanding the menu to include more Mediterranean style foods and daily specials. A woman's clothing store, BU Boutique, is set to open at 442 East Street near the Southington line. I have met with the owner various times over the last few months to go through the opening process and am working with the Central CT Chamber to schedule a ribbon cutting for the business.

Hair Musiq Salon & Spa is also working to open a location on East Street specializing in "hair, skin and self-care". A ribbon cutting and grand opening ceremony with the Central CT Chamber was scheduled for Wednesday, September 20th from 4-6pm.

That's all for this month's update. I do anticipate that we will likely meet next month to review an application depending on a decision by Planning & Zoning. I will keep the group updated on advancements.

OP-ED - The Ban on Gas-Powered Cars and Trucks By State Rep. Francis Cooley

The Lamont Administration has decided to follow California down the proverbial rabbit hole in banning the sale of gas-powered vehicles starting in 2035. The proposal, whose merits and faults will not be debated in the General Assembly, is being instituted by administrative fiat after a brief public comment period run by the Department of Energy and Environmental Protection (DEEP). Such a radical reorganization of our transportation system and economy is not something that should be undertaken without serious thought first, and definitely is not something that should be imposed on state residents by an unelected bureaucracy as is being done.

The notion Connecticut can simply get rid of gaspowered vehicles and replace them with all-electric vehicles is nonsensical. The state does not have the infrastructure to power all its transportation needs with electricity. There is not enough supply, nor is there a coherent plan to provide enough supply in just under twelve years. The infrastructure is not going to magically appear. New power sources take time. Permits must be obtained not only through the state bureaucracy but also the federal bureaucracy. Even in the best of circumstances new power projects take years to build. The Collinsville Hydro-electric plant has just started producing power eight years after its initial proposal eight years ago in 2015.

Wind and solar projects currently underway will not produce anywhere enough energy to meet the demand of an all-electric transportation system of vehicles. Nor will they fill the void left by the eventual closing of the Millstone Nuclear Energy plant which has extended licensing for Unit 2 ending in 2035 and Unit 3 ending in 2045. The State of Connecticut through DEEP is aggressively moving to close the trash to energy plants still remaining in the state. The current on the board projects to fulfill the State's ambitious plans to have Connecticut's electric supply be all renewable energy by 2040 is currently on target to be short of the actual electric needs of the State as currently envisioned without electric vehicles. The physics and math do not support this plan.

Economically the transition to all electric vehicles will make Connecticut less competitive in the global marketplace. Let's not forget, Connecticut has one of the highest electric rates in the country. For those businesses and individuals that stay in Connecticut an all-electric vehicle fleet will have a disastrous impact on just maintaining our existing infrastructure. HVAC, Plumbers, Electricians, and other service providers who crisscross the state to fix our heating and cooling, plumbing, electrical systems and other systems necessary to keep our homes and businesses running will be spending more time idle waiting as their tool and supply ladened vehicles have to take a midshaft half-hour to hour recharge of their batteries costing them at least a service call a day. That's a minimum of five lost service calls a week per tradesman, 250 a year. At 1000 tradesmen, that is a quarter of a million lost service calls a year. This is a conservative estimate. For many workers who rely on their cars for work going from site to site in sales, deliveries, etc. the time they will have to take to recharge their vehicles battery from their work will be economically catastrophic for many of them. There has been little foresight into the negative economic impact this policy will have on the Connecticut economy.

policy will have on the Connecticut economy. Families already financially stressed will see sticker shock looking to purchase a new EV vehicle. Never mind what a family would see when they open up their first Eversource bill after a month of home charging. The plan to put further strain on electricity-market with an all-electric vehicle mandate will only increase the price of electricity. This is the simple law of supply and demand. Connecticut is losing industry and business already due to its high tax and energy costs. Frontier has just recently announced it is seeking to move its headquarters out of Norwalk for either Texas or Florida. Increasing energy costs to business will only accelerate the number of businesses leaving the state for less expensive locations. Ultimately, the laws of physics, economics, and mathematics cannot simply be rewritten on a political whim. Policies that do not consider the real-world impact are doomed for failure. Those who will pay the price are not the unelected bureaucrats but the residents of Connecticut. The all-electric vehicle policy being foisted upon Connecticut needs to be opposed for these reasons.

Tat Rawes: Just want to share my recent experience when I stopped by Forestville Lumber Company on Townline Rd. in Plainville with a broken sliding glass door handle. Craig & Leo were so helpful!

Craig tried several times and did his best to repair it for me...couldn't be done!

However, I was never pressured by either one to purchase the part from them. Because of their service and help, I would not buy what I needed from any other place!

Both Leo and Craig are an asset to Forestville Lumber! Thank Guys, Pat

Make My Day by: Raymond Cormier

*It was raining the other day and I was just about to put my purchases in my car. A young man stopped and did it for me. He Made my day! Never got his name, I did tell him he really Made my Day! He certainly did!

Ferhaps you would like to thank a neighbor for a kindness and we would like to help you give this person recognition for a job well done. If this person works for a local business, we are sure his or her employer is going that extra few steps to help their customers.

Mothers & Fathers, I am sure your child has "Made your day". Let us know about some little things they do to help around the home, empty the baskets, wash the dishes, and etc.

We will use first names only, but they will know who they are the one that helped you out.

Q-1) I understand that Oct 15 thru Dec 7 is the Annual Enrollment Period. I have had the same Medicare Advantage Plan for 7 years. Should I just keep my same Plan? Is there really any difference between the first Advantage Plans and the 'newer' ones?

A-1) Actually, there have been many changes in benefits from the beginning of Advantage Plans in the early 2000's. Currently there are many Advantage Plans with $0 Premiums, Plans with No Referrals are available through many Carriers, additional $0 copay Dental and Vision benefits are included most 'newer' Advantage Plans. It would be in your best interest to have a Plan review and comparison.

Q-2) I have a Medicare Supplement Plan from a large Insurance Carrier and my Premium was just increased to over $400 per month. Are Medicare Supplement Plans different between Insurance Companies? When could I switch from one Insurance Company to a different Insurance Company?

A-2) The benefits in each lettered plan are the same, no matter which insurance company sells it. Price is the only difference between policies with the same letter sold by different companies. Unlike Advantage Plans, you can change your Supplement Policy at any time; you are not restricted to the Annual Enrollment Periods.

Q-3) Can I have a Medicare Advantage Plan if my spouse has a Medicare Supplement Plan?

A-3) Yes, each person has their own individual Medicare ID and can have the type of Plan that works best for them. You are not required to have the same type of Plan or the same Company as your spouse.

If you have any specific questions, or would just like to talk about Medicare, please feel free to give me a call 860-965-0091 Sheila Dow

HOW TO START A FIGHT

One year, I decided to buy my mother-in-law a cemetery plot as a Christmas gift. The next year, I didn't buy her a gift. When she asked me why, I replied, "Well, you still haven't used the gift I bought you last year!"

And that's how the fight started...

My wife and I were watching "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire" while we were in bed. I turned to her and said, "Do you want to have loving?" "No," she answered. I then said, "Is that your final answer?" She didn't even look at me this time, simply saying, "Yes."

So, I said, "Then I'd like to phone a friend."

And that's how the fight started . . .

My wife and I were sitting at a table at her school reunion, and she kept staring at a drunken man swigging his drink as he sat alone at a nearby table. I asked her, "Do you know him?" "Yes," she sighed, "he's my old boyfriend. I understand he took to drinking right after we split up those many years ago, and I hear he hasn't been sober since."

"My God!" I said, "Who would think a person could go on celebrating that long?"

And that's how the fight started . . .

When our lawn mower broke and wouldn't run, my wife kept hinting to me that I should get it fixed. But, somehow I always had something else to take care of first - the shed, the boat, making beer . . . always something more important to me. Finally, she thought of a clever way to make her point. When I arrived home one day, I found her seated in the tall grass, busily snipping away with a tiny pair of sewing scissors. I watched silently for a short time and then went into the house. I was gone only a minute, and, when I came out again, I handed her a toothbrush. I said, "When you finish cutting the grass, you might as well sweep the driveway."

The doctors say I will walk again, but I will always have a limp. My wife sat down next to me as I was flipping channels. She asked, "What's on TV?" I said, "Dust."

And that's how the fight started . . .

Saturday morning, I got up early, quietly dressed, made my lunch, and slipped silently into the garage. I hooked the boat up to the van and proceeded to back out into a torrential downpour. The wind was blowing at 50 mph, so I pulled back into the garage, turned on the radio, and discovered that the weather would be bad all day. So, after all that, I went back into the house, quietly undressed, and slipped back into bed. I cuddled up to my wife's back, now with a different anticipation, and whispered, "The weather out there is terrible."

My loving wife of 5 years replied, "And, can you believe my stupid husband is out fishing in that?"

And that's how the fight started . . .

My wife was hinting about what she wanted for our upcoming anniversary. She said, "I want something shiny that goes from 0 to 150 in about 3 seconds. I bought her a bathroom scale.

And that's how the fight started \dots

My wife was standing nude, while looking in the bedroom mirror. She was not happy with what she saw and said to me, "I feel horrible; I look old, fat and ugly. I really need you to pay me a compliment.

I replied, "Your eyesight's damn near perfect."

And that's how the fight started . .

I rear-ended a car this morning - the start of a REALLY bad day! The driver got out of the other car, and he was very, very short!!

He looked up at me and said, "I am NOT happy!"

So, I said, "Well, which DWARF ARE you then?"

And that's how the fight started . . .

Letters to the Editor.....

Dear Editor:

I am writing to support Kathy Pugliese for re-election to the Plainville Town Council. Under Kathy's leadership the Republican led council has held the line on taxes during this period of high inflation. She has done a great job for Plainville.

Sincerely, Helen Bergenty

Dear Editor;

Roberta Lauria, Jonathon Onisto and Jered Bruzas are running as the GOP slate for the Board of Education in Plainville. All three believe in Equality not Equity and are proponents of educating our children to prepare them for the future and not political indoctrination. Tha's why I am voting for the Plainville Republicans this November.

Susan R. Whalen

Dear Editor,

I strongly suport our Endorsed Republican Slate for the November 7th election. Our Town Council Republican candidates will continue to be focused on being fisclly responsible with all decisions made and to maintain the quality of life for all Plainville residents. Our Boardof Education cnadidates are either graduates themselves or or are raising their children in the Plainville Community schools. life values!

Dear Plainville Citizens,

I am writing this letter to support Crystal St. Lawrence who is running for reelection to the Plainville Board of Education. I have known Crystal for the past ten years, as a fellow parent in town and also as a former teacher in the district. Crystal and I worked closely when she was a substitute teacher on my team. In that role, she had direct experience seeing what the needs were for students, teachers, and staff. Crystal and I also worked closely on the Parent Teacher Organization (PTO). Once again this allowed her to work closely with other parents, teachers, and administrators. Her past involvement in each of these duties has given her on-site experience in the day-to-day activities in our schools. These experiences along with her last two terms as a board member make Crystal St. Lawrence the best candidate to be re-elected to the Plainville Board of Education.

I am thankful that she has decided to run again. She is a quiet force who is dedicated, committed, and informed. She will continue to fight for what's best for all Plainville students. Please vote for Crystal St. Lawrence, Plainville Board of Education.

KNOWING LANDLORD AND TENANT OBLIGATIONS

Landlords and tenants have been fighting for as long as humans have been living in shelter. Most of the time these disputes could be avoided with an understanding of what is legally required by each party. This article will touch upon a few things to know when renting and for landlords.

A landlord can be held liable for an injury caused by a tenant's dog, provided that the landlord knew or should have known that the dog had the vicious or dangerous propensity to cause such an injury, and provided further that the injury happens on the premises owned or controlled by the landlord. Given this kind of potential exposure its no wonder why so many landlords do not allow dogs.

Tenants can only withhold rent if do properly through the court. Many tenants belief if the landlord does not fulfill some obligation they can simply not pay all or some of the rent. While this idea is true, the tenant still needs to initiate a rental abatement action with the court to properly withhold rent.

Agreements made by landlords and tenants outside of court need to memorialized in writing and signed by all parties. This is not a hard line rule, but just good practice for everyone to ensure their rights are protected. Too many times evictions turn into a "he said" – "she said" battle without any documentation.

I hope this proves helpful to those interested! Always remember when it comes to technical aspects of the law it is better to contact a licensed attorney who can help you with your matter.

According to the National Sleep Foundation, approximately 30% to 35% of adults in the United States report symptoms of insomnia. Insomnia is a sleep disorder that may include difficulty falling asleep, staying asleep, or waking up too early and being unable to fall back asleep. Insomnia can be a chronic condition for some individuals, while others may experience it on a transient or occasional basis.

Cannabis has been a topic of interest in the context of insomnia due to its potential to influence sleep patterns and improve sleep quality.

Here are some key points to consider regarding cannabis and insomnia:

Effects of Cannabis on Sleep:

- Indica vs. Sativa: Cannabis strains are commonly categorized as indica or sativa, with indica strains often associated with relaxing and sedating effects, which may be more helpful for sleep.
- CBD vs. THC: Cannabidiol (CBD) and delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) are two major compounds in cannabis. CBD has very mild psychoactive properties and may have a calming effect without any impairment, while THC does bring on a psychoactive effect which can induce relaxation and drowsiness.

Dosage: The impact of cannabis on sleep can vary depending on the dosage and individual sensitivity. Low to moderate doses may promote sleep, while higher doses can lead to side effects like paranoia, restlessness or disrupted sleep.

Benefits for Insomnia:

- Some individuals with insomnia report that cannabis helps them fall asleep faster and experience deeper sleep.
- Cannabis may be particularly beneficial for individuals with pain or anxiety-related insomnia, as it may reduce both pain and anxiety.

Risks and Concerns:

• Dependency: Regular or excessive use of cannabis can lead to dependency, making it necessary to consume cannabis to sleep.

CANNABISCONVERSATION

with Dr. Paulina Miklosz DNP, APRN

- Tolerance: Over time, individuals may develop tolerance, requiring higher doses to achieve the same sleep-inducing effects.
- Side Effects: Cannabis can cause side effects such as impaired cognitive function, memory issues, and impaired motor skills, which may persist into the next day (especially if dosed inappropriately).
- Legal and Safety Concerns: The legality of cannabis varies by region, and it's important to follow local laws and regulations. In Connecticut, cannabis is legal for adult use (formerly referred to as recreational use) and can be purchased by adults 21+ years of age at a local dispensary.
- In terms of safety concerns, driving or operating machinery under the influence of cannabis is dangerous and illegal. It is also important to keep any cannabis containing products in a secure location away from children and animals.

Alternative Treatments:

Before turning to cannabis, individuals with insomnia are advised to explore non-pharmacological approaches and lifestyle changes including cognitive-behavioral therapy (CBT), improved sleep hygiene, relaxation techniques, and addressing any underlying medical or psychological issues contributing to insomnia.

Consultation with a Healthcare Provider:

If you are considering using cannabis to manage insomnia, it's important to consult with a healthcare provider, especially if you have any underlying medical conditions or are taking medications that may interact with cannabis. A healthcare professional can provide guidance on safe and appropriate use.

For more information on medical cannabis use, and CT Medical Marijuana Program certifications, please contact our clinic, Higher Med at (959) 900-8206 or check out our website at HigherMed.org. Life With Wanda Another day, another dollar, as they used to say. Things are so bad going to the grocery store are just plain depressing, I really don't do much shopping any more. When I go I notice people aren't loading up their carriages like they used to, Walking by the fruits and vegetable department I find I really don't need some of the things I used to enjoy and after speaking to other shoppers they seem to be doing the same. What used to be a nice day of seeing what was new in the bakery department I find I can just walk on by.

This week I needed a few item, just about four things we couldn't do without. As I checked out with one of my favorite cashiers she remarked, "My goodness, you didn't get hardily anything today, and you drove all the way over here." I said, "Yes, I enjoy coming in and looking at the things I used to buy." Is it just the few people I know or does everyone feel the price of food has gone out of sight?

Is there an end to this or are we going to become one of those people like we see on TV waiting for someone to send us a box of food for $25 a month?

I don't know about you folks but I'm so old I can remember when that golden arches place opened up and a burger was 15 cents, fries were 10 cents and I don't remember what a soda was but someone said it was 8 cents, Times sure have changed.

FOCUS ON JESUS

By: Myke Roy

I grew up in a Catholic household. We had a picture of The Last Supper always hanging in at least one room of our home. Looking back, it seems that every one of my aunts and uncles also had a picture of The Last Supper hanging in their homes; and I had a lot of aunts and uncles.

When I moved to East Texas in the 90's I ended up attending Central Baptist Church in Jacksonville, Texas, where I was introduced to the Protestant faith. I am not here to tell anyone which religion to follow, I just know what worked for me and helped me with my walk with Christ.

I now identify myself as a non-denominational evangelical Christian...who leans Baptist.

Anyway, I was redoing my home and wanted to also do some redecorating. For some unexplainable reason I really wanted a picture of The Last Supper on the wall behind me as I sat at the head of the table.

Again, I don't know why. So, I went to the local Christian store and purchased one. I was so excited when I finally hung it on my wall.

A few days later I noticed that the picture was crooked in the frame. I will tell you that I was a little upset. After all, I paid good money, and I deserved better quality than this. I decided I was going to return it and exchange it this coming weekend.

Well; a few evenings later I was looking at the picture and realized that when I focused on Jesus, I did not notice any of the imperfections. I decided to keep the picture as a reminder that if we focus on Jesus nothing else matters.

So, when life hands you a bag of sour grapes, or when someone cuts you off while you are making that left turn, or someone just decides to curse you out for no reason other than they are having a bad day; focus on Jesus and none of those things will matter.

Have an Awesome Day, and May God Bless You!

Raking in the Fall: A Physical Therapist's Guide to Proper Technique and Posture

The crisp autumn air, the vibrant hues of leaves, and the satisfying sound of them crunching underfoot – fall is undoubtedly a beautiful season. However, with the arrival of fall also comes the task of raking leaves. While raking may seem like a simple chore, it's important to remember that improper technique and poor posture can lead to discomfort and even injury.

As physical therapists at Physical Therapy & Sports Medicine Centers of Plainville, our goal is to ensure you enjoy the season while keeping your body safe. In this guide, we'll walk you through the proper techniques and postures for raking leaves.

Preparing for the Task

Before you grab that rake and start working, take a moment to prepare your body. Gently stretch your back, shoulders, and arms to warm up your muscles. A few simple stretches can help prevent strains and stiffness later on. Additionally, wearing comfortable clothing and supportive footwear will enhance your stability and overall comfort.

Choose the Right Tools

Selecting the right tools can significantly impact your raking experience. Opt for a rake with an ergonomic handle that allows for a natural grip. This will help reduce the strain on your wrists and forearms. Consider using a rake with adjustable length so you can customize it to your height, further promoting proper posture.

Maintain a Neutral Spine

One of the most crucial aspects of raking leaves is maintaining a neutral spine. Avoid rounding or hunching your back as this can strain your muscles and lead to back pain. Instead, stand up straight with your feet hip-width apart. Engage your core muscles to provide stability and support to your spine.

Use Proper Raking Technique

When raking, it's easy to get caught up in the repetitive motion and forget about your posture. However, using the right technique is essential to prevent injury. Hold the rake with a firm grip and use your legs to generate the majority of the force, rather than relying solely on your upper body. Bend your knees slightly as you rake, allowing your legs to power the movement and reducing strain on your back.

Alternate Your Grip

To avoid overworking one side of your body, alternate your grip on the rake handle every few minutes. This will distribute the workload evenly and prevent muscle imbalances. It's a small adjustment that can make a big difference in reducing strain.

Take Breaks

Remember, raking is a physically demanding task. Taking breaks allows your muscles to rest and recover. Set a timer to remind yourself to pause every 20-30 minutes. During these breaks, perform gentle stretches to keep your muscles limber.

Mind Your Posture

As you rake, periodically check your posture. Are you maintaining a neutral spine? Are your shoulders relaxed? Is your core engaged? Staying mindful of your posture can help prevent slouching and discomfort.

Finish with a Cool Down

Just as you warmed up before starting, it's important to cool down after you've finished raking. Perform some gentle stretches to release any tension in your muscles. Pay extra attention to your back, shoulders, and arms.

Embracing the beauty of fall should not come at the cost of your physical well-being. By following these proper techniques and maintaining good posture while raking leaves, you can enjoy the season while safeguarding your body from discomfort and injury. Remember, taking care of your body today ensures you'll be able to savor many more autumns to come. And if you do have pain, give PTSMC of Plainville a call or visit us on the web at www.PTSMC.com/Plainville.

Happy Raking!

Letters to the Editor.....

Dear Editor,

I am urging my fellow Plainville residents to support the Republican slate for Town Council. Kathy Pugliese, Joey Catanzaro, David Underwood, Deb Tompkins and Jacob Roco will keep Plainville taxes under control while supporting our local economy. They support the redevelopment of th White Oak property on West Main Street. Vote Row B like me on Election Day.

William Davison

Dear Editor,

Plainville voters need to vote to keep the Republican majoirty for the town Council. Under GOP leadership, the Council has effectively responded to the budget issues created by Bidenflation while keeping control on spending and taxes. This is why I'm voting Row B this November.

Barbra Davison

Editor

I'm writing in support of Rebecca Martinez for the Plainville Board of Education. Martinez's involvement and volunteering with numerous town groups including Plainville's Board of Education, PTO, Rotary Club, and the State Board of Examiners of Nursing demonstrate her commitment to Plainville and the state. Rebecca works tirelessly as a current Board of Education member, most recently as an advocate for the MSP renovation. She always has the betterment of the next generation in her work ethic and is willing to work with both sides of the aisle which is so critical in today's political environment.

Michelle Chaput

Editor,

I have known Rosemary Morante for a long time and am very pleased to support her re-election to a fifth term. She is a serious, hard-working member of the Plainville Town Council who will always put the town first. She is dedicated to making Plainville a great place to live. I have also found that Rosemary is very well-informed when discussing local matters with others and very helpful in answering questions and clarifying points about town issues. I urge others to also support Rosemary Morante as a dedicated public servant who certainly deserves another term on the Town Council.

Tony Tarascio

Dear Editor:

I am writing in support of Jered Bruzas for Plainville's Board of Education. Jered currently serves on the Board, has children in the Plainville School System, and is a graduate of the Plainville School System. Jered works for the United Way of Greater Waterbury. He has dedicated himself to giving back to the community and will continue to do a great job on the Board of Education. I urge all Plainville residents to vote for Jered in November.

Sincerely, Pat Lostocco

Dear Editor:

Please vote for Jonathan Onisto for Plainville's Board of Education Jonathan is dedicated to making sure our kids are prepared to be successful in the 21st Century economy. As a business owner Jonathan knows what skills our kids need. Vote Onisto in November.

Thank you, Laurie Peterson

Dear Editor:

Based on her record, we strongly endorse Rosemary Morante for re-election to the Plainville Town Council.

She rigorously researches every issue as well as the budget. As a result, her decisions are based on the facts. As a result of her research, she is a strong advocate for a full Middle School Renovation.

Rosemary is committed to maintaining and improving quality of life municipal services (Senior Center, Park and Recreation, Fire and Police etc.) as well as supporting new programs such as the Farmington Canal Trail.

Finally, she gives back to the community through her diligent work at the Plainville Historical Society.

Rabbit Ears, 1970s TV Is Back

By: Francis Rexford Cooley

The TV landscape has greatly changed over the last fifty years. The 1970's saw the spread of cable television improving reception for millions of households dependent upon aerial antennas and rabbit ears to capture the analog signal of the then three major networks, CBS, NBC, and ABC, along with one's local PBS station and an independent channel or two showing mainly reruns of old TV show, movies, and maybe your local sports team. Cable TV also helped usher in the development of niche channels that quickly developed throughout the 1980s so that by 1992 Bruce Springsteen could lament in song,"57 Channels (And Nothin' On)." By the beginning of the 21st Century cable customers had 100s of channels to view and today some systems have over 1,000 channels.

The explosion of niche channels along with the multiplication of specialized channels like ESPN and MTV into networks of channels, ESPN has the original flagship channel, ESPN +, ESPN2, ESPNU, ESPN3, ESPNews, SEC Network, and SEC Network+. This has greatly increased the fees the cable companies pay for the channels they show and, of course, what the cable companies charge their consumers. Cable can cost a household over $3,000 a year. Many younger viewers have moved to streaming services using the internet to choose an ala carte plan. This can still cost over $1,000 a year or higher. So what is the cost conscious consumer to do during this time of high inflation squeezing their budgets? For some, it is to go retro, 1960's and 70's retro. It is time to hook up the TV to an aerial antenna or rabbit ears.

The digital revolution has radically changed the over-air broadcast landscape. The traditional over-air broadcasters of NBC, CBS, ABC, Fox, The CW and PBS along with local independent TV channels are no longer limited to one channel. Each has a sub-channel or series of subchannels broadcast along with their main TV channel. So if one tunes in WVIT, Channel 30, one would receive along with the local NBC feed, Cozi TV, NBCLX, and Oxygen. Channel 3, the CBS affiliate has Mystery, LAFF, and the Wax as additional channels. The local Fox 61, ABC 8, CW 20, and CPTV 24, have additional channels as well. Both Ion TV and METV own old local independent channels (26 and 38 back in the day respectively) and have eight channels each covering a range of programing from reruns of classic television shows (and not so classic television shows), along with old films, reality shows, and shopping networks.

For the viewer who chooses to go over-air rather than cable or streaming their choices are much broader than one would think. In Plainville, away from the Metacomet Ridge, which does block the over-air signal for those stations located up in the Springfield and New Haven areas (channels 32, 34, 8, 59) one can get between some fifty to sixty channels. This selection includes the local over the air networks, a couple of sub-channel news networks (Newsnet and Scripps), local weather radar (WFSB through their low-power channel 27 which rebroadcasts the Wax), sports (mostly Spanish language soccer and a world sports subchannel broadcast by channel 34), Westerns on GritTV, Sci-Fi on Comet, Telemundo, and CourtTV, among other choices.

So instead of complaining that there are 1,000 channels and nothing on, one can cut "the cord" of either cable or streaming and go back to 1992 and sing-along with Bruce Springsteen, "57 Channels (And Nothin' On)." However now, those singing-along, are saving thousands of dollars in cable and streaming service subscription fees. All of a sudden rabbit ears on the TV is looking pretty good.

She was the beloved daughter of the late Joseph and Lucy (Salvatore) Mancini, and sister to the late Alexander Mancini. Born and raised in Plainville, Rose dedicated her life to her family, her faith, and the betterment of those around her. Through her partnership with Joe she was the vibrant force behind Ciccio Homes, while also managing their rental properties with kindness and grace for over 40 years.

Rose was a woman of faith, a devout Catholic who served her lifelong parish, Our Lady of Mercy, as an Extraordinary Minister of Holy Communion. Her service wasn't confined to the altar alone, for she was a committed volunteer in countless capacities, creating a strong circle of friends along the way.

She was an anchor for her family, raising her daughter and best friend Rosanne and sharing a remarkable bond with her beloved granddaughter Olivia Santostefano. Rose supported her daughter's equestrian dreams with unwavering love, proving time and again that a mother's support knows no bounds.

Rose and Joe were Florida snowbirds for over 50 years, making friends and leaving footprints of love in the sands of the Sunshine State. She was a woman of beauty, both inside and out, a beacon of unconditional love and non-judgment. ~ Mary Louise (Moore) Sylvia ~ of Simsbury, CT (formerly of Plainville, CT) passed away peacefully surrounded by her loved ones on September 12, 2023. Mary Lou was born Mary Louise Borges on August 15, 1943, at St. Ann's Hospital in Fall River, Massachusetts on the Feast of the Assumption. Her name (Mary) was chosen by the nuns who prayed over her, the only girl born that day at the hospital. She is the daughter of the late Lena (Raymundo) Borges and George Borges. Mary was raised in Somerset, Massachusetts along with her three siblings in a proud Portuguese American community. She is a graduate of Somerset High School.

Mary Lou was a beloved mother, nana, and friend, known for her dedication to her family, her sense of humor, and her loving nature. She was an avid reader and would spend hours reading and could get lost in a book. She loved to cook and bake. She is famously known for making the most amazing sausage stuffing and Christmas would not be the same without her Christmas wreath desserts. She also loved horror movies, the scarier the better. She also loved music, which led to her nickname of Marytunes.

But what she loved most was her family. She was a beacon of love, support, and generosity to them all. She raised four children with William Moore in Plainville, CT. She dedicated her life to her children, from football games, wrestling matches, cheerleading competition, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, and loved being a part of the activities as much as her children. She welcomed her children's friends into her home, Beechwood Road was always filled with kids and activities. She was a member of the Plainville Women's Club, taught catechism at Our Lady of Mercy, and was a Den Mother for Plainville's Cub Scout Pack.

As much of an amazing mother as she was, she was equally an amazing Nana. Her grandchildren were the light of her world. Some lived close and some lived far but Nana always made you feel like you were the most important part of her life. She kept up with all their activities and stayed current on social media and pop culture. She could talk with the kids about anything and relate to them like no other.

Ever been looking through the refrigerator and come across an empty plate?

Well, that starts me to wondering. I think, did something eat something else? Maybe the olives ate the peas. Maybe the chicken isn't really dead, and he's grazing on my stuff.

Actually, I picture a little mouse with gloves and a parka on, you know just waiting for the lights to go out so he can get back to work. I guess the worse thing that can happen cleaning out or looking through the refrigerator is to come across... something that you can't identify at all. You literally do not know what it is. It could be meat, it could be cake. Usually at a time like that I'll bluff.

Honey, is this good? Well what is it? I don't know. I've never seen anything like it. It looks like meat cake. Well, smell it. Actually it has no smell whatsoever. It's good, put it back.

Somebody is saving it. It'll turn up in something. That's what frightens me.

Some things I didn't like just because of the sound of the foods. To this day, I can still not eat yogurt. It sounds like it's coming up again. Something else that doesn't sound so good, squash.

You want squash? Hell no! Sounds like somebody sat on my dinner. Succotash, want some?

Same response. Terrible sounding food...head cheese. I can't even look at the sign. Between head cheese and blood tongue, I may never eat again. It certainly won't be at the deli.

Then there are some foods that sound too humorous to eat. did you ever hear something too funny to eat? Guacamole. That sounds like something you wear to a dance. May I borrow your green guacamole? Garbanzo...what some garbanzos? It sounds like a circus act. Ladies and gentlemen, the garbanzos. The funniest food of all time, kumquats. I don't even bring them home. In the garbage they go.

Food for thought... All of the dust and cobwebs in my house just became decorations for Halloween.

Have a safe and fun Halloween !!! John Gasparini

From 1985 to 1988, Santos served as a commissioner on the NSAC and as chairman from the fall of 1987 to the fall of 1988. While a commissioner, he strongly advocated for AIDS and Hepatitis awareness and was instrumental in the groundbreaking 1988 implementation of testing of boxers for AIDS and Hepatitis. He also advocated for the creation of other safety measures to further protect boxers in and out of the ring, such as attached thumbs on gloves, utilization of computers to track boxer data, boxer passbooks, allowing weigh-ins to be conducted the day before the bout-as opposed to the traditional day of the bout-so that boxers could re-hydrate themselves, and despite heavy criticism, supported the return to the ring of George Foreman and also, "Sugar" Ray Leonard for his bout with Hagler in 1987. Along with two other commissioners, Herb also pushed through the creation of a new modernized rule book which would later become a guidebook for boxing rules in the 1990's. He served on the commission during a time which has become known as the "Golden Age of boxing" in Nevada. He supervised some of the greatest bouts in Nevada boxing history such as Hagler vs. Leonard. He oversaw great boxers such as Mike Tyson, Thomas Hearns, Julio Cesar Chavez, Michael Spinks, Larry Holmes, and Evander Holyfield. During this time, he also served as a supervisor for the World Boxing Council

Prior to becoming a boxing judge, Santos was a war time veteran as a former Judge Advocate General in the United States Air Force at Stead Air Force Base in Reno (Vietnam War) and also served in the United States Navy aboard the distinguished U.S.S. Benewah (Korean War). Santos was a high school basketball standout in Connecticut and played basketball in college at Suffolk University in Boston leading to induction into the Plainville Sports Hall of Fame in 2016. He received the President's Award for Lifetime Achievement from the Nevada Boxing Hall of Fame in 2016, and received the Nevada Justice Association's Lifetime Achievement Award in 2012. He also received proclamations from the Cities of Reno, Las Vegas and the State of Nevada Legislature.

It was Labor Day, 2005. I come from a very large Italian family where any get-together resulted in dozens of family members, including cousins, Aunts, Uncles, Grandparents, and friends that became part of our ever-growing family, coming together to celebrate. So, our traditional Labor Day celebration was no different, until the unimaginable...the unthinkable happened.

The party was a hit with over 50 family members and friends in attendance. It was your typical late summer gathering with lots of swimming, playing, music, laughs, and food. After all, we are Italian! About mid-way through the gathering, it was almost time for dessert, and what summer party would it be without the cold, refreshing fruit salad that was always a staple when the coffee and desserts came out? It was really the only way we could get the younger kids to get some healthy nutrients in them without it becoming a fight. Fruit is nature's candy, after all.

My nephew, Scottie, who was that type of child who was always happy, always smiling, always enjoying all of the elements that surrounded him, and who had that infectious belly laugh that could brighten the darkest of days. That day, Scottie was being his usual happy self and enjoying the sweet taste of nature'scandy before diving into the plethora of cookies, cakes, muffins and pies. You've gotta get those vitamins and minerals in that little, 21-month-old growing body before indulging in those sweets, right? Little did anyone know that these would be the last nutrients that my nephew, my sister's baby boy, would ever have again.

Scottie died tragically that day. He died in front of 50 family members, in front of his older sister, in front of his Aunts and Uncles, his Noni and Popi, his mommy and daddy. It happened so quickly. With a body...a heart that small, when an emergency strikes, one has to respond quickly while remaining level-headed enough to provide the care needed to save his life. Unfortunately, even with 50 people standing by, all of the efforts made in trying to save my nephew, my sister's little boy, from choking on that piece of fruit, no one could save Scottie's life that day. It happened so fast. The panic was too much. The efforts made to dislodge the fruit from his throat were not enough, not even for the paramedics to save him. Scottie tragically passed away on the way to the hospital that day. He would have turned 2 that winter.

It is important to note that with a child that small and a heart so tiny, when a breathing emergency happens, it happens a lot faster than it would to an adult. I am by no means saying that the care provided to Scottie wasn't good enough, but if we had known then what we learned after that tragic day, maybe, just maybe the outcome would have been different. The guilt, the shame, the feeling of utter failure that has been haunting my family since that day will never fade.

This is why I have dedicated my career to providing the proper training needed to lessen the chances of anyone having to experience that same pain, guilt, shame and loss that my family, my sister, had to endure for the past 18 years. I decided to open up Heart Start Training Institute, LLC, which offers several first responder training courses that provide the skills and knowledge needed to prepare you for any emergency that may arise. I have chosen to design my courses in a way that offers the flexibility to accommodate anyone's schedule, learning style, and abilities. Having the skills and knowledge to know how to respond to an emergency can save lives and the more people who are provided the opportunity to obtain these skills and prevent a tragedy like the one my family has suffered from is my number one priority.

Heart Start Training Institute, LLC will work with you, with your group, with your place of employment to get the training you need to save someone's life. For more information, visit www.heart-start.com or call Michelle Boulanger at (860) 480-7939.

Tyler Corriveau's Fight to Beat GB Syndrome

Hi my name is Tori Corriveau, and I've created this fundraiser on behalf of my brother Tyler Corriveau. Tyler is a 23 year old from Plainville, CT is currently in the Army Reserves and worked for Hartford Hospital as a patient care assistant and physical therapy aide.

In January Tyler was diagnosed with Guillain Barre Syndrome (GBS). He started to get weak and lost the ability to walk and use his hands. Tyler ended up falling on his fiancé, Brianna at home while getting ready to go to Hartford Hospital for the third time in one week. The ambulance took him to Hartford Hospital where they told him "Nothing is wrong" and to "go home and rest". He fell in the parking lot, so he could not go home. It was then that he was taken to UCONN Health where he was admitted after running numerous tests (MRI, CT Scan, blood work and a spinal tap). The spinal tap was what diagnosed Tyler after seeing how much Cerebral Spinal Fluid he had in him as well as the alarming amount of protein found in his body. He was at UCONN for 5 days and received intravenous immunoglobulin (IVIG). This syndrome can be caused by a vaccine or can be contracted after a virus. This syndrome caused his own immune system to attack the nerves in his legs hands and it would have progressed to the lungs if it was not treated quickly.

From UCONN Tyler went to Mount Sinai Rehab center for intensive physical therapy and occupational therapy. He could not use his hands. He needed to learn to walk again and regain the strength in his legs. He also had to learn to use his hands again. He was in the hospital and rehab center a total of 60 days. He has been continuing his physical therapy as an outpatient since then.

Tyler is working hard and making progress. He does not walk without a walker and getting up and down the stairs is a challenge. He cannot drive or go to work. He is regaining the use of his hands slowly. He continues to get monthly IVIG infusions to help his progress. The doctors are optimistic that he will regain mobility, but it may take a year or more. He cannot drive or go to work so he is having a difficult paying his rent, car payment, groceries, and everyday expenses. Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) does not qualify GBS as a disability unless you have an associated illness from it. Tyler has been laid off from Hartford Hospital because he used up all his FMLA, so he is unable to collect Short Term Disability.

I love my brother; he and I have been through a lot together. It saddens me to see him struggling like this. Thank you very much for your generous help during this challenging time. Please feel free to share Tyler's story. Your support and warm wishes are greatly appreciated.

Tori Corriveau and Family. If you wish to help Tyler with this journey, please see Tyler Corriveau's Go Fund Me page.

Ask the Brayne...

Q. If I had a computer, I could get the answer myself. But I do not have one nor would I know how to use it. I am a plumber and don't have the time to start to study how they work! My question is when did "The Stock Market crash?

When you hear the word Florida what is the first thing you think of? Perhaps it's vacation, Disney, Universal Studios, Sea World, beaches or even that pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, "retirement." For those of us that have reached that age and journeyed to the state of Florida I find after you get the lay of the land you might find there are more than a few pit falls you might find.

First there are many in Florida that might refer to those of us that have moved to Florida as "Snowbirds." I have begun to refer to us as "CASH COWS." You might wonder what that might refer to and as I have explained as cash cows we came to the sunshine state with udders full of money and are milked clean. There are businesses ready to pounce on senior citizens and pluck them clean, from auto repairs, contractors, venders selling everything from water purification systems to solar panels, lightening rods, lawn care and the list goes on. If you ask what is one of the biggest money makers in Florida, you would probably say the amusement parks, the beaches or even the housing industry but hold on, the one thing bringing in some of the biggest share of the billions in Florida is the medical profession and the senior population are the ones laying out the big bucks or should I say their healthcare providers are. Just recently after an accident, a helicopter was called to transport a senior citizen on a ten minute trip to a nearby hospital, cost $62,767.01, and they didn't even give a tour of Disney World. If you check out the waiting room of any doctor's office you will find everyone waiting is well over sixty five. After a long wait you finely get to enter an examining room where a young lady takes your blood pressure and enters the findings in her laptop. Again after a short wait the doctor or PA enters and reads what your vitals were recorded by the first girl. The PA asks how you've been doing and are you still taking the pills given on your last visit. (Google those pills because some pills taken with each other make you ill, but the doctor doesn't tell you that.) After you assure him or her you have, the PA says, "Keep up the good work and I'll see you in three to four weeks." My question is why? When you return for your next visit the waiting room is full of senior citizens waiting for word from the doctor or PA who is going to ask the same questions.

In many cases I have found the doctor will send you off to another doctor who is a specialist in one thing or another and they in turn run you through a battery of tests and in some cases refer you to another specialist. I know of two women who have been suffering from sciatic nerve pain for months and their doctors refuse to give them any type of pain medication for fear they will become an addict. Both these woman are over eighty and are in such pain they are in tears but the only thing their doctor does is refer them to a pain specialist. I feel if these doctors give them something to relieve the pain or cure them they won't come back in two to three weeks. One of the woman goes to her doctor three times a week, can you imagine how much he is billing Medicare and the poor soul lays in bed until the next appointment.

So if you think Florida is the land of sun and fun, think again. How's your doctor doing?

Healthcare On the Great Plain

by: Gertrude LaCombe

Healthcare today is an economic and social hot topic but for the very first families living on the Great Plain it was simply provided by several Farmington doctors before we became a town. As our area became more populated Dr. Samuel Richards was appointed to be our first resident doctor. He probably opened his office on Broad St. (then called Broadway) where the school house and most businesses were located during the 1700's.

Life expectancy was limited and many died young. Healthcare at that time was in its infancy and new medical cures were yet to be discovered. The first scientific breakthrough of the day was an inoculation for small pox. In 1791 a group of area doctors concerned about the spread of the disease, asked for and obtained permission from the Town of Farmington to build an immunization hospital on Rattlesnake Mountain. The procedure required the patients, most under 30 years old, to be isolated for a period of three weeks. Away from the hospital there was a large surface boulder that served as a meeting place for the stagecoach to transfer people and supplies. While waiting and looking for some entertainment some patients carved their names into what became known as "Hospital Rock." Although hidden, the rock still stands with many names and dates carved into the granite boulder which serves as a memorial today.

Several newly educated doctors settled here before and after Plainville was established in 1869. They were very involved with the health and social welfare of the people. Dr. Buell became a town clerk, Dr. Wright became a Justice of the Peace and Dr. Moody became a health inspector and druggist. In 1914, as health inspector, Dr. Bull presented a report that showed an increase in disease and infections due to poor drainage and sewer conditions.

George Cook came here in 1924 to practice when Dr. Bull retired as town health inspector. He served on the staff of New Britain, St. Francis and Hartford Hospitals. As town health inspector he recommended a town wide garbage collection, and the hiring of a school nurse. Lawrence Frost, opened an office here in 1913, and in 1921 was appointed to the medical and surgical staff at the newly opened Bristol Hospital. He always welcomed our family for checkups at his office. He made house calls day and night when needed and charged $2.00 a call. He was a big jolly fellow, loved to talk and was a great story teller. Famous quote "Two great men were born on February 22. One never told a lie and the other never told the truth." He was honored on his birthday by the Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Cook and Dr. Frost became the heart of our community and developed many close relationships.

On a Sunday morning in late September my very pregnant mom told dad " I don't think we'll be going to church today. It's time to have Doc Frost on call." By afternoon he arrived on time and brought me into the world with his usual blessing. Women at that time were ordered to bed rest after giving birth and a nurse that had been hired soon arrived to care for us. He finally stopped counting the number of babies delivered at 2,713.

Doc Frost carried a medicine bag made from an alligator when making house calls. When opened up it displayed rows and rows of vials filled with colorful medications. One time when my brother got sick, he picked out the right pills for the cure, put them in a little white envelope and labeled it "COWBOY". Years later when my brother was to play the part of a doctor in a high school one act play he gave him his alligator bag to use as a stage prop. Doc was not only a special doctor but also an artist and loved history. In consultation with Henry Castle he painted the picture of Whitings Basin that hangs in the historic center canal room.

Doctors were the first druggist as they made and dispensed many of their own medications. For help, they trained a druggist assistant to put together the prescribed ingredients at a store. Dr. Moody and Charles Sanford opened the first drug business in the center of town near the railroad tracks in 1854.

The drug store had been in several locations with different owners. The store was last sold to Mr. Tomlinson. Soon after the purchase the great fire of 1883 struck. At this time, buildings were made of wood. The fire burned down most of the West Main St. structures on that cold January day. The stores were quickly replaced with new brick buildings that stll stand there today.

The business was then sold to a self taught druggist George Byington. A most dedicated man who put his customers first. He stayed up many nights during the 1818 flu epidemic until he nearly collapsed from exhaustion. To relieve the stress he hired and trained a young local man, George Nilson who wanted to become a druggist. When the depression came along it also tired Mr. Byington physically and financially. To increase his business he put in the towns first soda fountain. This became an instant delight and gathering place for the youth with the public library being housed on the 2nd floor. He kept his business until he died in 1940 and will be remembered as a man who was always there when they needed him.

Another drug store with fond memories was Thrall's Drug Store at the corner of Whiting and West Main Street. Trained druggist Ralph Thrall purchased the business from the Galpin Drug Company. He was very successful locally and active in the business life of the town.

In 1927 he incorporated the business and made himself, his wife and George Nilson officers in the corporation. George had been hired by Thrall's after working for the Liggett Co. in New Britain. After much thought Mr. Thrall decided to go to the University of Maryland to study dentistry. At this time George was made manager of the store and was assisted by Mr. Berger who was trained in Ansonia.

George and his family were my longtime neighbors and friends. He was highly regarded for his friendly disposition by all he met. His son Dwight followed in his dads footsteps and also became a local pharmacist. Only a few independent drug stores still remain and our doctors work out of clinics and hospitals. The doctor house calls are now only in our memories.

Our little town has been blessed with many successful families. One was Charles Norton who was an inventor who gave us the park named in his honor and the Norton Trust Fund for our benifit and healthy recreation and another was Frank T. Wheeler who was the president of Trumbull Electric which became G. E.

Frank and his wife Bertha bequeathed their entire estate to the benefit of others as they had no children. Their home was given to build a YMCA., funding was given to build an addition to the library and also to build a hospital which became the Wheeler Clinic. The clinic has now expanded to Bristol center with the new construction of a high rise Wheeler Mental Health building that will carry their legacy into the future.

The Town of Plainville has been guided through the years by the heroes of our past who worked day and night to provide the many needed health services. Their devotion continues to be a baseline for outreach and healthcare for people working together to be a community that cares for all upon the Great Plain.

NEW TO THE COLLECTION

We have been given an impressive framed portrait of Ervin E. Trask, educator, long-time Superintendent of Schools in Plainville, and namesake of the Trask elementary school. He "gave his entire life to the advancement of educational opportunities for all youngsters."

Remembering....Perrotti's Meat Market in the 1960s.....nestled in a strip mall of small shops on East Street where the empty Parson's Buick building is now. There was a dancing school there, where my Nancy and her friend Linda Ferguson made their stage debut dressed as indian corn for a recital. I digress.

Regular customers flocked to Perrotti's to get quality meats and poultry and some specialty offerings like their fresh, big, fat juicy breakfast sausages. It was a treat at my house on Saturday for supper, with homemade potato pancakes and applesauce. Mike, butcher extraordinaire, cut or trimmed your meat to order and would throw in a bone for the dog sometimes.

Later on, Perrotti's moved across the street when Peter Cellino built an L-shaped building and the entire back section housed a huge meat market. There was a rack of white coats inside the door you could borrow before entering the giant meat locker. That entire area was refrigerated and you could get rather chilled if you didn't have your sweater on. ...Janice

Rachel St. Onge presented her fascinating Snappy Seniors program on vintage houses in Plainville for September to a well-attended audience, and rave reviews.

We have had to postpone our Eastern CT Paranormal Program until the new year, in order to make time for the team to do a proper investigation and documentation of the Historic Center Building. Watch for a new date, probably in January.

A Holiday Open House is planned in early December with our Children's Room and the Sloper Dollhouse featured. Watch for further information on our website and Facebook page.

POKER HOLLOW

For years in Plainville the old-timers whispered about the ghost of Poker Hollow. No one knows for sure how it got its name. Little information is available in the historical records, but Henry Castle's History comments simply: "following North Washington Street going north, crossing the Pequabuck River and the railroad tracks, coming to what is now Camp Street, then going west, we find a little valley known as poker hollow. At the corner of Camp St., where you turn the corner toward Bristol, folks passing through there at night...they heard strange noises." This area was once overgrown with brush and trees and impassable and swampy, and there were reports of a noisy ghost in that area on dark moonless nights.

As this bull stood in the middle of a field of daisy's, waiting for the Memorial Day Parade to start, many old friends remembered him when he graced the top of Perrotti's Meat Market on East St. Some in the crowd wondered out loud, "What was this bull doing in the parade and where has he been for so many years?" The big black bovine, that so many of the older crowd remembered from the past and were a part of removing him from the top of the Perrotti's as a practical joke, and placing him at other locations, has become a fixture in the yard of Steve Litke on Unionville Ave. There are a lot of B.S. stories about his past,

Just ask someone over 60 years old. Please help the Historical Society if you know what happened to the BULL!! Hope to hear what you heard about it!!

In 1969 two one hundred year old gravestones, of mysterious origin, were discovered when a homeowner was excavating there marking the burial of a baby and a young man in 1861 and 1865. Did they indicate an old cemetery in the area?

We do know that where Olson Brothers Mfg. is now, in the 1890s, a tiny trolley station stood where travelers disembarked in the summertime on their way past the hollow meadow, toward the Victorian Campgrounds on Camp Street. There is a complex of homes there now. Some think that perhaps summer evenings during the revivals, perhaps the men gathered there to smoke and play poker, thus the name. Only the shadow knows.

AN AUTUMN WEDDING at the CHARLES NORTON ESTATE

By: Gertrude LaCombe

Surrounded by fall leaves and chrysanthemums of white and gold, Augusta Gould and Leroy Mason exchanged marriage vows in front of the fireplace in the little white bungalow on the Norton Estate which was to be their home. The Reverend Arthur Ball of the Plainville Methodist Episcopal Church performed the ceremony at 2:00 P.M. on the 23rd of October, 1926.

The lovely red headed bride was dressed in a Woodland brown satin char Meuse with flesh georgette trimmings and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Arthur Gould, brother of the bride, served as best man.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of Charles H. Norton. Guests that attended the wedding included Leroy's brother Edward Mason of New York City and his sister Margaret Mason of New Jersey. His mother came from California to be present as well. After the reception the couple left for a two week auto trip through New England.

At the time of her marriage Augusta was living at home with her father and brother. When the couple started their life together at the Red Stone Hill Estate, Leroy was 42 and she was 41.

In 1931 they decided to add to their family and adopted a beautiful little three year old girl to be their daughter and named her Nancy Louise. It was about this time that Augusta's brother, Arthur—my father—met a young lady from Maine named Helen Chute. Soon thereafter, he brought her home to be his wife and started his family.

The two new families became very close and when I was born the Masons became my Aunt Gussie and Uncle Roy. Their daughter Nancy was my cousin, my big sister, mentor and the source of many of my beautiful clothes.

In 1948, while planning her wedding, Nancy gave me the job of making the bride's cake. I felt so honored to be a part of her wedding. The little three tier cake probably looked like it had been made by a nervous 14 year old, but it was made with pride and joy. And it was on that special day, while standing in front of the same fireplace where 22 years earlier, her parents, Leroy and Augusta, had exchanged their vows, she married Russell Modeen.

SKIN TALK—

Its peel season! Treat yourself to a chemical peel with the VI Peel system. Fight wrinkles, pigment, and uneven texture. A youthful transformation for ALL ages.

There are a lot of misconceptions about peels. Here are some myths debunked! Myth: I can't do peels in the summer. You can! Unlike laser & IPL, VI Peels' mechanism of action does not stimulate melanocyte activity. The initial injury triggers sloughing of epidermal cells followed by re-epithelialization allowing you to follow the same sun protection guidelines in winter, spring, summer, or fall.

MYTH: Peels can't treat cystic acne.

Even the most congested and inflamed acne lesions will benefit from a VI Peel. VI Peel Purify or Purify Precision Plus will be your ideal choice as they contain the top 3 ingredients for treating active acne. Plus, they contain essential hydrocortisone to calm inflammation.

MYTH: I suffer from Rosacea so I can't get a VI Peel.

False! Rosacea patients need exfoliation just like everyone else.

Important to 1) avoid peeling during rosacea flares and 2) focus on building skin tolerance. Book your free consultation to discuss how you may be able to benefit from chemical Peels.

"History Erased"

A great woman erased from history by idiots. The branding of the syrup was a tribute to this woman's gifts and talents. Now future generations will not even know this beautiful woman existed. What shame. The world knew her as "Aunt Jemima", but her given bane was Nancy Green and she was a true American success story. She was born a slave in 1834 Montgomery County, KY. and became a superstar in the advertising world, as its first living trademark. Green was 56-yrs old whenshe was selected as spokesperson for a new ready-mixed self-rising pancake flour and made her debut in 1893 at a fair and exposition in Chicago. She demonstrated the pancake mix and served thosands of pancakes, and became an immediate star, She was a good storyteller, her personality was warm and appealing, and her showmanship was exceptional. Her exhibition booth drew so many people that special security personnel were assigned to keep the crowds moving. Nancy Green was signed to a lifetime contract. and traveled on promotional tours all over the country. Her death was in 1923, at the age 89. This was a remarkable woman, and sadly she has been ERASED. ************

Prayer to St. Jude

St.Jude, patron of the desperate and Saint of the Impossible. I turn to you in trusting prayer. Centuries of Christians have found you to be a mighty helper in overcoming seemingly impossible barriers.

I entrust to you my present need. Pray that I never lose heart when the way seems dark and dreary. I await your help and praise God for guiding me to seek your help in especially difficult situations.

Amen.

PLAINVILLE PAWS PATCH PROGRAM

Soon to be debuted: the new specially-designed Plainville PAWS Patch. You can sew it to your favorite casual wear to signify your love of animals and a respect for their welfare, for a $10 donation. There will be some perks, a regular newsletter for one, including updates about life at the Plainville Pound. More to be announced.

From the Plainville Animal Control Desk:

STOP IN AT OUR PUMPKINFEST BOOTH PAWS patches are available for $10

There are new state laws regarding wildlife (including bears) in Connecticut as of October 1. You can find the details on the State's web site, but a quick version advises us that you can legally kill a wild animal that is threatening you, your family or your pet. It is now illegal to feed a wild animal and you can be fined for doing so. We are still processing the new rules ourselves. You are not being kind to wild animals when you establish food dependence.

Things have been busy at the pound. For some strange reason we have had an influx of family pet dogs who have wondered away from home. It is against the law to allow your dog to roam in Plainville. That being said, we do rescue lost dogs, in accordance with our "social work" policy, and take them to the pound on Granger Lane where they are safe, fed and watered until we can release them home. That emotional reuniting with family usually occurs after some time and investigation. If the dog has its license on it helps and if there's a tag with a phone number it is great.

So! Someone left the door or the gate open and you suddenly realize your dog is gone. What happens then?

After shouting its name in the yard, you should check online. We post notices of dogs picked up on Plainville Talks and on our Facebook page: search PLAINVILLE PAWS.

Yes, that Plainville Paws, the one that you so faithfully support with your participation in our fund raising efforts.

It provides our ability to maintain several services for animals in distress here in Plainville, and effect rescues that benefit the safety of the entire community. Thank you.

We are always available to answer your questions at 860 747-1616.

DOG LICENSING REMINDER TOWN CLERK'S OFFICE

The Town Clerk's Office is reminding dog owners that all dogs over 6 months old must be licensed by June 30 for the 2023-2024 year.

Renewals may be done in person, by mail, or online if the rabies vaccination is current. If the rabies information is not current, owners must submit the updated rabies certificate for the license to be processed. The cost of a dog license is $8 for a neutered or spayed dog and $19 for non-altered dogs. After June 30, a penalty charge will be imposed of $1 per month for each month that the dog is not licensed.

For more information, call the Town Clerk's Office at (860) 793-0221 x7153

BOTTLE, CAN & CLOTHING DRIVE

The bottle, can and clothing drive for the benefit of PAWS will continue. You can leave your returns at the pound at 29 Granger Lane or at the front lobby of the Police Department.

Thank you for your support.

DID YOU KNOW?

Did you know that you can adopt an animal from the Plainville pound on Granger Lane? When you choose to consider our animals, you can rest assured that it has had its shots up-to-date and has been neutered. While in our care, all pets are monitored for temperament, habits, and interactions with people and other animals. We will answer your questions honestly and share whatever history on the pet is available. It is our goal to achieve happy homes for all. Did you know that our animals are affordable? There is sometimes a minimal fee, often none.

These are our Sunset years -

Where not too old for certain things,

Yet old enough to not be able to take our own care.

We don't have a list of desires now-

Yet small fulfilled desires make us happy.

Just a cake or an ice cream slice,

Just a smile or a hello from people around us,

Just the sunny weather and the walk around the House. Just a good cup of coffee around the table with fellow residents.

We miss our family who are busy in their lives,

We miss the outings with our friends,

We miss the busy cheer of children around us,

We miss driving around to far-off places.

Life is like a setting sun,

A run to the hospital is not fun,

Medicine is now at par with food, We need these to cheer up our mood.

Our bodies which were our strongest part

Now need the support of canes for a walk.

Yet we find happiness in small things We keep ourselves busy with Rosary, Bingo, and TV.

Thankful Grateful and Blessed

Staying at Blessed House our heaven.

We are treated as family,

Our Home away from home.
